

Online meetings and Webinars just got easier

Key benefits

- Present, train, and demo with built-in VoIP and phone conferencing.
- Host online meetings with audio without incurring per-minute call charges
- Share anything instantly with your Mac or PC.

The latest version of GoToMeeting Corporate makes it even easier to conduct sales demonstrations, virtual team meetings, remote training sessions and online marketing events.

- Choose free VoIP, phone conferencing or both
- Record your meeting – audio and data – with just one click
- Engage audiences with new Webinar features
- Present anything from your Mac or PC

Eliminate conference call costs with free Total Audio

GoToMeeting Corporate's new Total Audio service allows meeting hosts and attendees to access online meeting audio through either their phone or computer. Using the latest VoIP (Voice over Internet Protocol) wideband conferencing technology, participants can use their computer microphone and speakers to interact during online meetings for no additional cost. Meeting attendees can also access the integrated phone conferencing service and speak with other attendees in the same meeting using VoIP.

Make setting up audio a snap – No support required

GoToMeeting Corporate makes it easy for meeting hosts and attendees to access Web and audio conferencing without technical support or complex setup wizards. Participants enter meetings by clicking a link in their email invitation, and automatically hear a greeting through their computer speakers. If they don't have speakers, they are instructed to dial in via phone. GoToMeeting Corporate makes it that simple for all audiences to access online meetings, and helps businesses of all sizes to cut down on their conferencing costs. Plus, with integrated audio you can record your meeting in just one click.

Welcome, Mac users!

Finally, Mac[®] computer users can both conduct and attend online meetings and Webinars just as easily as PC users do. GoToMeeting Corporate now allows Mac users to launch one-click meetings from their Mac dock and share high-resolution applications in real time. Mac users can now enjoy GoToMeeting's easy-to-use and high-performing interface and communicate seamlessly with PC-based participants.
